The Podcast Consumer - Summary

- Podcasting continues to rise, with Monthly listeners growing from 21% to 24% year over year.
- The audience for podcasts continues to be predominately 18-54, and leans slightly male.
- The Podcast listener remains an affluent, educated consumer—and one that is becoming increasingly more likely to gravitate to ad-free or ad-light subscription experiences.

The Podcast Consumer - Summary

- Clicking on a podcast to listen to it immediately (either streamed or via progressive download) is the dominant paradigm for listening, though 27% do subscribe to podcasts.
- Subscribers tend to have been podcast consumers for longer than non-subscribers, consume more podcasts, and are more likely to use their smartphone as their primary podcast player.

The Podcast Consumer - Summary

- While Home continues to be the most often named location for podcast listening, the vehicle is a strong second.
- Most podcast consumers listen to most of the podcast episodes they download, and the vast majority listen to at least most of each episode.

The Podcast Consumer - Summary

- Podcasts are the number one audio source by time of consumption among podcast listeners.
- On the smartphone, podcasting's Share of Ear® is tied with AM/FM content, and leads AM/FM among 13-34 year olds.

A Few Final Thoughts

- Fix discovery, yes—but let's not forget “push” in a “pull” world.
- The podcast audience is a distinct segment – and the available inventory to reach them is getting smaller.
- Content isn't “king.” The audience is king. There are huge underserved potential audiences for new forms of spoken word media—so let's not rely on “received wisdom” too much.
